Join us at 6:00 PM for our annual Julebord on December 8! We'll have glog and hors d'oeuvres and lots of good food, and the St. Paul Swedish Male Chorus will join us!

It was great to see so many families at our November meeting, as our Junior lodge challenged us to match their knowledge of Norway.

The Norwegian Stabbur

Perhaps you noticed the fine model stabburs that the Stows and Junior Lodge members displayed on the tables at the November meeting. Those, together with a feature on stabburs from Maihaugen Lodge 1-665 in the Kansas City Metro Area which was brought by a member whose name I have forgotten (sorry!) were the inspiration for this article.

A stabbur (pronounced STÄB¹-bur) is a building on a farm, which in earlier times was a storehouse for food such as flour and salted meat. The name comes from “Stav-bur” or “pole-cage”, or, in other words, a hut on stilts. In some parts of Norway they are called stolpehus or stolpebod, which means “post house.” On most farms, the stabburs were very plain, and contained one simple room, but on large farms the buildings were sealed and supplied with a loft and were decorated on the exterior with ornamental painting or carved wood. This loft was a slightly larger room used for storage of food (fruits and vegetables), furniture, spare living quarters, or for smoking meat. Trunks with clothing and valuables were sometimes stored on the upper floor. There were usually no windows, there was no heat, and grass/sod roofs were often utilized.

The purpose of the stilts, which usually raise the building two to four feet above ground level, is to keep out moisture from the ground, and to discourage mice and rats. Food and commodities were stored on the ground floor. Stilts raised the floor level, and the steps did not come into contact with building to reduce the possibility of rodent infestation. Meat and cheese was hung from the ceiling on hooks.

According to the Norwegian folklore each farmstead has a Christmas gnome living in their stabbur. The Christmas gnome brings gifts for well-behaved children. But if the gnomes are not well-looked after, they can play tricks on people. Some people put out a bowl of rice porridge sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon to keep their barn gnome happy, much like children today leave out cookies for Santa.

Today some functions of the stabbur, such as flour storage, are still continued, but many of these traditional buildings are maintained mainly to preserve their heritage and culture. Also, stabburs in Norway are commonly converted to living quarters for tourists and other visitors.

In addition to the Maihaugen Lodge 1-665, the information and photos for this article came from many sources, including Wikipedia, Wikimedia, scandinavianheritage.org, and dickinsonmuseumcenter.org.

Lodge News

Fra presidenten

Dear Members,

God Jul to you and yours! The Julebord is one of our Lodge's favorite events. It is always so wonderful to see everyone and eat the special treats that summon up fond memories of family, friends, and the past.

As I reflect upon the year 2009 and review our programs, I can't help but smile as I think of the fun and enjoyment we have shared. The two Genealogy Programs were outstanding! Aren't our fellow member's families a great source of interest? The Nordic Walking Program spurred many to action.

Let's not forget how much fun we just had with our Junior Lodge and their families. Susan and Ron Stow worked long and hard to put together "The Challenge" between the Senior and Junior Lodges as well as the stabbur table decorations. One could actually feel the energy in the room as the younger ones set up their stations. I hope we can continue to have joint times together.

I look forward to a new year of fun and fellowship. Thank you, dear members, for your support and participation.

Blessings,
Sharon

Membership Pins: Congratulations to the following members who will receive 5-10-15-20-25 or 30 year membership pins at our Julebord on December 8. Board Meeting Minutes, November 3, 2009

Attendees: Sharon Amann, Sue Halvorson, Trudi Johnson-Richards, Sharon Kalmes, Clay Keller, Clayton Lance, Mary Beth and David Mutchler, Kathy Stevens, and Ron and Susan Stow.

Old Business:

The Torsk and Meatball Dinner recap meeting was discussed along with recommendations for next year's dinner. Susan Stow explained the format for the November lodge meeting that is being presented by the Junior Lodge. Sharon Kalmes reported on the food and help signup for the December Julebord. It was decided that if members do not bring food to share, we will require a $10 donation to help meet expenses. Membership Pins will be distributed at the December meeting. The calendars will be distributed at the November meeting to those who purchased them.

New Business:

The Board voted to make contributions to the Ski for Light Program and to the Army National Guard Program where they train with Norwegian soldiers. Dave Mutchler gave a presentation on the age demographics of our lodge. Our lodge is doing better than a lot of others in having a lower median age and maintaining memberships. A discussion was held on ways to increase the number of volunteers participating in lodge fund raising activities which support our scholarship programs. There have been complaints about the length of the lodge meetings and in the future efforts will be made to keep them short.

Submitted by: Sue Halvorson, Secretary

The next board of directors meeting will be held at 7:00 PM on Tuesday, December 1 at the Maplewood Library,

Lodge Meeting Minutes, November 10, 2009

95 senior and junior lodge members and junior lodge families attended the November meeting.

Sharon Amann opened the meeting by asking that the October minutes be approved as printed in the Brevet. The minutes were approved with a correction to show that Joanne Hogenson was also a server for the treats. Clayton Lance gave the treasurer's report. Calendars were distributed. Signup sheets were available for the Julebord and Salvation Army Bell Ringing at Byerly's on December 5. A slate of officers is being prepared for presentation at the December meeting.

Lodge members celebrating November birthdays were Clayton Lance, Ardyce Davies, Jean Verner and Jan Hovland. There was no one celebrating a November anniversary. Joanne Nordale won the door prize.

The Junior Lodge did a wonderful job with their program "Are You Smarter than a Fifth Grader?" for the lodge meeting. A good time was had by all the senior lodge members who were challenged by the junior lodge in regard to their knowledge of Norway.

We thank the Junior Lodge and their parents for providing the delicious treats and the cute stabbur table decorations.

Submitted by Sue Halvorson, Secretary

The deadline to submit items to the Brevet for the coming month is normally the 20th of the previous month. Please keep this time frame in mind, and keep those news items coming!

Thanks,

-Dave

Junior Lodge Update

Energy, pep and enthusiasm abounded at our November meeting! We tried a new game from De gode, gamle barnelekene by Mari Maurstad. The game is called "Knutemor". We divided the group into the taller ones, and the shorter. Two were designated as the "Knutemor" to go into another room while the groups knotted themselves together with arms, legs and hands. It is the job of the "Knutemor" to untangle the group successfully.

We are learning the third new dance this year, "Danse Jase", another dance which shifts from a line to a circle and then back to a line again.

Two junior lodge members were awarded the bronze Idrettsmerke medals. Leigh Boettner-Johnson earned points in water aerobics, dancing and roller blading. Ellen Kneesern earned all her points as part of the Stillwater swimming team. Congratulations to Leigh and Ellen.

Soren and Sten Hoiem were guests who joined right in on all the activities. We hope they will join our group making our membership total twenty-seven strong!

Our Peer Gynt adventure story this month was the portion "In the Hall of the Mountain King" where Peer is asked a riddle by King Brose of Dovre. "How do you tell the difference between a troll and a man?" At first Peer wanted to inherit King Brose's mountain kingdom, but the thought of wearing a tail, losing his eyesight and never leaving the kingdom didn't appeal to Peer. He was only too glad to escape the trolls, King Brose and his daughter when they heard the church bells.

In December we look forward to our annual baking party. This year we are going to try rolling lefse along with baking kringla, and krum kake. Best of all, everyone gets a box of goodies to take home.

THE NORDIC IMMERSION VILLAGE ART SHANTY

The Nordic Immersion Village Art Shanty will bring Scandinavia to life on the ice of Medicine Lake in Plymouth this January and February! A part of the larger Art Shanty Projects, an event organized around the design and construction of ice fishing shanty-like structures and production of engaging projects, art, events, and shows at the site, the Nordic Immersion Village Art Shanty will provide a Scandinavian twist to the event.

Scandinavian activities at the shanty may include dressing up like Vikings, herding imaginary reindeer, and choreographing dances to Eurovision songs. Visitors will be invited to celebrate 'the Art of Nordic Languages' by picking a name from one of the Nordic countries, learning culturally authentic songs and crafts, and participating in hands-on language classes.

The project is directed by Valerie "Magna" Borey of Concordia Language Villages Norge Rundt program, a one Saturday morning a month version of CLV's Skogfjorden during the school year, along with Sarah "Hannah" Hansen and David "Bjorn" Christian. For more information about the Nordic Immersion Village Art Shanty, go to <http://nordicimmersion.weebly.com/index.html> . If you're interested in volunteering on the project (e.g., to help build the structure, run activities, etc.) or would like more information about Norge Rundt, please contact Valerie at vborey@hotmail.com .

This and That

(We are always interested in members submitting articles on books they have read or movies or plays they have seen.)

THE CORNER LIBRARY

-By Don Halvorson

Caught up in the realities of war and occupation, The Shetland Bus by David Howarth is the story of a flotilla of WWII Norwegian fishermen who strike back at their German oppressors in the only way that they know how. Based in the Shetland Islands, the mission of the group is simple: to deliver men and materials to the coast of Norway undetected and return to the Shetland Islands with any refugees anxious to flee the situation there. Add to that a lonely thousand mile journey of winter darkness, violent storms in the North Atlantic, and an occasional detour from the mission at hand, and you have a fresh look at a resistance story not often written about before.

David Howarth, a British Naval Officer and the leader of this Norwegian-manned fleet, is the storyteller. With his meticulous attention to detail and his personal involvement with the subject matter, Howarth has created a day by day journal of this remote little known corner of the war. An author of two dozen major works, he also wrote The Sledge Patrol and We Die Alone, which also take place in this theater of operations.

Howarth, David The Shetland Bus. Originally published in 1951 by Thomas Nelson and Sons Ltd., First Lyons Press Edition 2001

All three of the books are available from Vesterheim Museum and Ingebretsen's.

We Die Alone is also available from the Ramsey County Libraries.

A note from Trudi: The Shetland Bus and The Sledge Patrol are available from our lodge library. We Die Alone would make a nice donation to the library.

The holidays are only here for a short while - but your financial gifts to your loved ones can make a difference in their lives for years to come.

Here are some ideas of gifts that will have lasting value in someone's life.

- Start a college fund for a child or grandchild.

THE CORNER LIBRARY TOO

West Oversea is Lars Walker's best book so far. Set in the time of transition between Old and New, between the Old Gods and the New Christian God, between the Old Ways of the Sight and the New Way of Faith, it is the story of a journey.

Aillil and his sister Maeve were captured years before in a Viking raid on Ireland and sold into slavery. Aillil was sold to Erling Skjalgsson to serve as his household priest. Now years later, Father Aillil hears a story about a thrall in Iceland who sings the same song his sister used to sing to him. Could it be? Could this be his sister Maeve? Father Aillil sets out to find her and free her. On his journey he finds out that the Old Gods and the Sight that they give men are more real than he thought. He has counseled others away from such things, but could this Sight help him find his sister? With Erling Skjalgsson he leaves Norway and goes to sea, to Greenland, Vinland and finally to Iceland. He has just one chance to see his sister again, but which way will take him to her? The Way of Faith in the New Christian God? Or the Old Ways and the Sight? And if he uses the Sight, can he trust it? You have to read to the end of the book to find out the answer to that.

Father Aillil's earlier adventures are found in the Year of the Warrior, also by Lars Walker. It is also a good read. For more info on this book go to Larswalker.com.
